Prevent Duty

The Prevent Duty, which came into force for Higher Education Providers in September 2015 as part of the Counter-Terrorism and Security Act 2015, places legal requirements on the College to minimise the risk of individuals being drawn into terrorism and to ensure vulnerable individuals receive timely and appropriate support. These pages are intended to provide our community with an understanding of what the Prevent Duty is, how it relates to the College of Osteopaths and our approach in meeting our obligations and keeping those within our community safe and protected. This policy should be read in conjunction with the College's Safeguarding Policy and any other relevant policies, some of which are mentioned below.

The Prevent Duty has three main objectives:

1. Respond to the ideological challenge of terrorism and the threat faced from those who promote it
2. Prevent people from being drawn into terrorism and give them advice and support
3. Work with sectors and institutions where there are risks of radicalisation

The statutory guidance for higher education institutions highlights key areas of attention. These are:

- external speakers
- partnerships with other local organisations engaged with Prevent
- risk assessment and action plan
- staff training
- welfare and pastoral care/chaplaincy support
- IT policies
- Students' Union and societies.

The Office for Students is the monitoring body for Prevent for HE providers.

Our Response

The College takes a proactive, safeguarding-focused approach to implementing our Prevent duty

- We are committed to encouraging events which stimulate open debate and broaden the learning experience for all members of the College community. To ensure we provide an environment conducive to this commitment, our Policy on Freedom of Speech & Academic Freedom clearly sets out the expectations placed upon all speakers at the College. We have systems for assessing and mitigating risks around external speakers and events held by the College, while maintaining the existing duty to promote freedom of speech
- The College's Board of Governors is responsible for overseeing the College's response to its obligations under the 2015 Counter Terrorism and Security Act.
- We have a risk assessment and action plan in place which is updated annually

- The College subscribes to an on-line training platform for staff to complete Prevent Training.

Our Risk Assessment and Action Plan

In accordance with the statutory guidance for higher education providers we have a risk assessment and action plan which will be reviewed regularly and is subject to monitoring and enforcement. These were last updated in March 2021.

Our Training

- The College is in the process of training College staff.
- In addition, we provide targeted safeguarding training for those staff working closely with students, particularly in areas such as Student Support making sure students are supported throughout their studies.
- All of the training we provide is aimed at identifying vulnerable individuals and providing the support they need academically, personally and pastorally.

External Speakers

At the College of Osteopaths, we support the open expression of views and the right to hold, challenge and rigorously debate a wide range of beliefs and positions. However, we also take our responsibility to our communities and audiences very seriously, and we prohibit any public expression of views on our premises that are in breach of the law or incite intimidation or violence. This must be taken into account when inviting an external speaker to the College.

Raising a Concern

- If individuals have any concerns about a member of the College community where they may have noticed signs of radicalisation such as but not limited to, a change in behaviour, or where they are becoming withdrawn, or acting differently, they are advised to not ignore concerns and to contact one of our designated safeguarding officers . If individuals are unsure who to approach, then concerns can be sent via email to: a.carryer@collegeofosteopaths.ac.uk .
- Reporting any potential Prevent concerns can be formally raised by completing the 'Raising a Concern Form' or by completing the Safeguarding Assessment Form (Appendix 1) below.
- The Safeguarding Officer may contact the Principal, local authority partners, Regional Police Prevent & Channel Lead, the Anti-Terrorist Hotline or Local Policing Team for further advice.
- Based on the information brought to the attention of the Safeguarding Officer, in liaison with Student Support / HR the following occurs , as applicable:
 - a) The vulnerable individual is informed about internal and / or external services as appropriate.

- b) An internal referral is made to the appropriate support service available at the College or accessible through the College's collaborative agreement, e.g. Counselling service / student support service.
- c) Channel Referral Group is convened consisting of the Safeguarding Officer and two other appropriately trained members taken from the Senior Leadership Team and the collaborative partner university, to recommend and determine whether to refer the matter to the Channel programme. The individual who is the subject of the referral shall be informed of the Panel's decision and the reasons for the decision.
